Inspiration:

Becky Stark told an excellent story about a disabled boy and how important it is that we look at all people the same regardless of their handicap and to give everyone the opportunity to be great. We all have a handicap some more obvious than others, one small gesture can make a life long impact in ones life. Give someone the opportunity to be a hero and pay attention to the opportunity that you may be given to make that impact in someone's life. You never know if that will be their very last memory.
